

Monday Morning Memo

THE BEST WAY TO STAY UP TO DATE
WITH ifmaKC & FACILITY RESOURCES

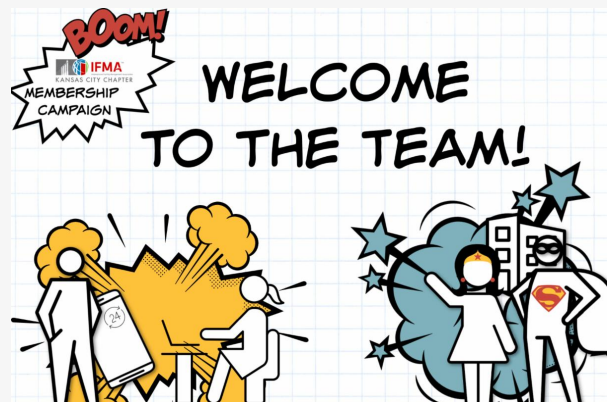

UPCOMING EVENTS

2021 Virtual CFM Exam Prep Workshop Sept. 15-16, 2021

Are you ready to sit for the CFM Exam? This 2-session virtual workshop will review the overall methodology of the CFM Exam and practice applying critical thinking skills to your FM knowledge, using sample questions in a simulated competency-based exam.

Register Here

Welcome New Members from May!

Mike Dalke - AGTAC

Skip Matthews - Rose Brooks Center

John Massey - PropertyTrak

Ryan Golomski - FIRST ONSITE

Tiffany Moore - Honeywell FM&T
Kansas City National Security Campus

Megan Arndt - American Century

Sasha St. John - NCRI

We are so glad you're here! Be sure to make sure you can login to our website, register for events, and check out our member directory!

Visit our website

Question of the Week

Do you like to attend Happy Hour events?

Absolutely!

Select

Not my thing

Select

Last week's question:
Hamburger, Hot Dog or Both?

Both: 45%
Hamburger: 42%
Hot Dog: 13%

If you have any issues, email Rose at info@ifmakc.org

Are you interested in getting your FMP Certification?

We wanna talk to you!
Our Education committee is hard at work creating amazing opportunities for you! Please email Teena Shouse if you're looking to complete your FMP

I'm Interested!

Good morning ifmaKC!!

I am very much looking forward to seeing you and your colleagues at the ifmaKC Golf Tournament tomorrow! It was refreshing seeing so many members and guests at the Kauffman Center tour a few weeks ago. It was a pleasure to meet a few ifmaKC members I never met until that day. I relish those opportunities!

Today, I wish to frame my message with the words of one of my favorite sports writers, Don Yeager. A few weeks ago, he wrote an article for Forbes Magazine titled, Chick-Fil-A Vice President Rodney Bullard: "If You Want to Change the World, Start with The Person Three Feet Away". Its relatable to the FM profession because the heart of his article speaks to authenticity, trust and playing fair. The following is a summary of Don's article.

Rodney Bullard attended the United States Air Force Academy because they had a solid football program. He set a goal to become an All-American, and when a knee injury ended his pursuit of playing on the gridiron, he went on to achieve All-American status in something else.

The shift in Bullard's aspirations from football to litigation paved the way for him to go to law school at Duke before moving into the corporate world. Today, he is the Vice President of Corporate Social Responsibility for Chick-fil-A.

Mr. Bullard talks about something he learned in his youth, the 3 feet analogy. "It basically says that I may not be able to change the world, but I do know I can impact anybody within a 3 feet radius of me. We should think about our 3 feet and the impact you have on those with whom you interact." Bullard has paid the gesture forward by employing a leadership style grounded in trust, grace, and dignity.

Here are some highlights:

- Champion authenticity: "Everybody will fall down. I will fall down. As a leader, I have to be filled with enough grace to forgive and to pick my teammate up again so we can continue the journey together."
- Build trust: "To me, building a great team starts with trust," Bullard said. "So many teams fail to develop that. They go towards activity and action without recognizing that beneath any action there is a person who has to achieve the action."

- Compete hard . . . in the right way: “In football, I did better after the first hit. After I was hit, and maybe knocked down, I was so much better. And in trial, after someone objected to me, it was the same thing,” Bullard explained. But competing hard is only good when the game is played fairly and with discipline, he added. “It’s okay to push yourself but remember the goal of litigation and football is a fair trial and fair game.”

Best,
Tod Hueser, Chapter President

Thank you to our Sponsors!

Questions or comments?
Email our executive administrator,
Rose Parmeter-Aubut: info@ifmakc.org

Click here to login into our website as a member!

Check out other members, learn about our committees and see our calendar of upcoming events!

